Dear Charles,

ERB enthusiastically supports the goals of the Center for Curriculum Redesign. I am honored to be invited to participate as a member of the Board of Advisors and look forward to our work on behalf of the learners of today and tomorrow.

We pledge the active involvement of leading thinkers from among our member schools as we confront the challenges and opportunities for learning afforded by technology on one hand, while maintaining our commitment to access and equity on the other. We relish the opportunity to help redefine what it takes to be a knowledgeable, ethical, and wise citizen of an interconnected and interdependent global community of learners. We are equally committed to achieving an appropriate balance between the personalization of practice and laudable universal curriculum goals.

I commend your leadership in galvanizing action on this long overdue journey.

Warm regards,
